

PARANDA

What makes Punjabi cuisine so robust and varied is that it has been richly influenced by all the invaders - from Alexander the Greek to Babar the Mughal to Sher Shah the Afghan to Nadir Shah the Persian.

The menu at Paranda is a paean to this cuisine. It is fragrant with the flavours of Lahore; It celebrates the famed street treats of Amritsar and the Grand Trunk Road; it pays homage to culinary maestros like Beliram, Beera and Sucha Singh; and it is redolent with the embers of home fires from the kitchens of the Kauras and the Singhs.

At Paranda, themes of soil, water, fire, charcoal and forest permeate the menu resulting in aromatic dishes that are rooted in the landscape from which they were drawn. The food stays true to its old-world heritage with the chefs using regional Northern Indian cooking techniques and secrets to create small moments of surprise.

The Paranda kitchen has a philosophy of simple purity. Master Chef, Boer believes; "The kitchen is not a laboratory". The menu features an abundance of robust, earthy dishes that have evolved from the province of Punj(five)Ab(water)- The Land Of Five Rivers. From the ingenuity of the ingredient to the flawlessness of the execution, every aspect of Paranda will lead to an emotive, intense, liberating way of eating with fingers unlike any other.

So, as they say in Punjab, chalo roti kha laiye.

As per the guidelines issued by Food Safety & Standards Authority of India (FSSAI) an average active adult requires 2000 kcals of energy per day. However, the actual calories needed may vary per person.
