

Rajasthan International Folk Festival - October 2007

Rajasthan is known for its colourful history, exotic culture and its charming people. This year Rajasthan's leading heritage foundations, the Meherangarh Museum Trust and the Jaipur Virasat Foundation, will be hosting the Rajasthan International Folk Festival at the spectacular Meherangarh Fort in Jodhpur, from 25 to 29 October.

The Rajasthan International Folk Festival - October 25 to 29, 2007

The festival is India's first annual festival of regional roots music, dance and the performing arts. Singers, dancers, instrumentalists, storytellers and artisans from more than 15 folk communities of Rajasthan, many of them little known, will present their unique centuries-old skills. Renowned invited artists will also give performances of roots music from around the world and collaborate with local musicians to create a vibrant meeting of cultures. And with its royal apartments, gardens, courtyards, halls, terraces and ramparts, the medieval Meherangarh Fort will be a stunning venue for the festival.
